GENERAL REMARKS.

Our schools for the most part have been taught by teachers too well known to the people of the town for me to take any of the space allotted me in this report to particularize on their services separately. With one or two exceptions every term has been taught and conducted successfully. Visits by parents have not been as numerous as they ought, but a fairly good number. The registers report 216 visitors, a falling off from last year. Number of tardy marks, 178; per cent. of attendance, 86.91+ less owing in part to sickness, and changing of families.

As it is much easier to censure than to approve, so it is the tendency often to look for better results in our schools than we ought, and especially is this true of those who seldom or never visit and, therefore, know but little about them.

Parents and school officers need to be considerate and careful in every point touching on the great question of education. Let us take more time. Better give your child's training a few hours' attention than leave a rich legacy. Our schools in this country are the most important factor in our civilization, and the corner stone of our form of government.

The people must be intelligently educated if they are to govern themselves. The permanency and high standard of our schools are, therefore, of vast importance—an interest in which all should be active. Every citizen should do all he can to build up and strengthen our schools, to make their standard higher, their work better.

The selection of teachers is of the greatest importance to the welfare of our schools, and it should be made with due caution.

Now after good character and efficiency, there is, perhaps, nothing more needful in the schoolroom than permanency in the teacher's chair. New teachers, new ways, new acquaintanceships to be made by pupils and teachers promise an amount of friction and ill adjustment in a school which is often prohibitive of good work, and ruinously expensive in time lost both to pupils and community. To this end I would recommend that the school board secure the services of as many of our present corps of teachers as possible. Teachers at six dollars a week are sometimes worth twelve or fifteen, but not very often. Here, as in other forms of work in the world, the lowest paid is the highest compensated. Penuriousness is often as bad as extravagance.

Existing laws require towns to maintain schools thirty weeks in the year in order to receive state aid; so before we vote our extra appropriation for the maintenance of schools let us approximate our expenses.

Respectfully submitted,

JAMES B. MARTIN,

Superintendent.
